

REMARKS

Claims 1, 4-5, 7-9, 13, 32-43 are pending and rejected as allegedly obvious over Li (Patent No. 6,609,050 B2) in view of Moore (Patent No. 6,370,454 B1). This rejection should be reconsidered and withdrawn.

As amended claim 1 recites: "selecting at least one service item from said service list defined by the current vehicle mileage, the vehicle service history, scheduled maintenance, manufacturer recall, and available service campaigns." Support for this amendment can be found throughout the specification, for example, at the paragraph bridging pages 8 and 9 of the specification. Li in general, and Figs. 17-28 (cited by the Office) in particular, are directed to a computer-based method for diagnosing possible vehicle problems and generating a work order directed to repairing such problems. Li does not disclose "selecting at least one service item from said service list defined by the current vehicle mileage, the vehicle service history, scheduled maintenance, manufacturer recall, and available service campaigns." Moore is cited for allegedly utilizing a PDA in relation to a repair order and does not address Li's deficiencies.

For at least these reasons, the obviousness rejection over Li in view of Moor should be reconsidered and withdrawn.
